

What you need to know about import-size cars depends on what you expect from one.

If you're looking for precise handling and resistance to cross winds, you'll need to know that Ford's new little Pinto has a wider stance than any economy import and is the only car in its class with rackand-pinion steering (like in Porsche and Jaguar).

If you're looking for performance for freeway driving, you'll need to know that Pinto's 1.6 litre engine has 75 horsepower compared to VW's 60. Or you can get Pinto's 2 litre engine with overhead cam and Webber carburetion that develops 100 horsepower—which is more than either Toyota Corona or Datsun.

If you want real economy, you'll need to know that Pinto averaged over 25 mpg in simulated city and suburban driving, that the steering is lubed for life, that it needs oil changes only twice a year. And that its suspension needs lubrication only once in three years (or 36,000 miles).

If you're interested in durability, you'll be happy to know that Pinto has parts you'd expect to find in bigger, stronger cars. So it will run quieter, longer.

If you want heavy-duty brakes, you should know that you can get floating-caliper front disc brakes on Pinto.

If you want driving ease, you need to know that Pinto offers you SelectShift—the three-speed automatic transmission that lets you downshift or hold lower gears for better control.

If you're looking for room inside where inches really count, you'll need to know that Pinto has more front leg room, more front and rear shoulder room, and more rear-seat knee room than VW, Toyota Corona, or Datsun 510 and Pinto's door is wider than any of the smaller imports for easy rear-seat entry-exit.

Pinto is import priced and sized, but gives you more...more room inside, greater driving ease, better handling, and the durability you want in a small car.

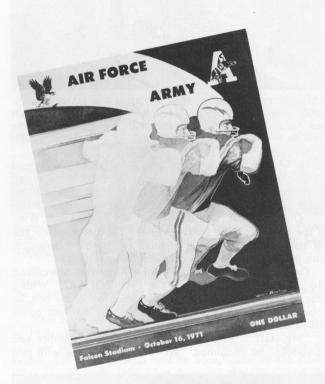

So if you expect more, then Pinto may be all you need to know about import-size cars

POLARIS RECORDS THE

Most colleges and universities have their own year-books.

The Air Force Academy has POLARIS . . . compiled and edited by cadets.

Except the annual was not always called by that name. In 1956, the first class of cadets, then in temporary quarters at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver, called their yearbook DOWNWIND. The following year the name was changed to BASELEG. And in 1958 the annual bore the name FINAL.

The edition of 1959 — the year the first class of cadets graduated from the Academy itself — the annual yearbook was designated POLARIS. It has remained the same ever since.

THEY RAMROD THE YEARBOOK The POLARIS editor-inchief, Cadet John Allison, confers with Capt. Gene Sands, Cadet Publications Officer, on plans for the 1972 annual.

The title ran into some unexpected opposition from high ranking Navy officials. At that time the Navy already had Polaris submarines; the Polaris submarine-launched ICBM was in the works. When the Chief of Naval Operations asked the Air Force Chief of Staff, "Why did the Air Force Academy choose the name POLARIS for the year-book?" the answer was simple.

For years Air Force navigators had used Polaris — the North Star which very nearly marks the position of the north celestial pole — as a reference point in aerial navigation. A stylized design of Polaris was incorporated into the official crest of the Air Force Academy. And the Cadet Wing had accepted the title POLARIS. Although a name change was again suggested in 1970, it was soundly voted down by the Cadet Wing.

Thirty-five volunteer cadets serve on the POLARIS staff. They put in many long hours in the Vandenberg Hall editorial offices.

In January 1971 the position of Cadet Publications Officer was established under the Commandant of Cadets. Able and experienced in the college yearbook field, Captain Gene Sands was named to the post. As Cadet Publications Officer, he consolidated the management of not only POLARIS, but also CONTRAILS, the fourth class handbook; TALON, official magazine of the Cadet Wing; and DODO, the Wing newspaper. As a member of the Board of Judges of the Colombia Scholastic Press Assn., Capt. Sands is up-to-date on modern trends in yearbook design.

"Our goal is to feature every activity of the Cadet Wing in the yearbook," he said recently. "The cadet editor and his staff make full use of creative composition consistent with good journalism and excellent photography."

Cadet First Class (Senior) John Allison of Marcelline, Mo., is the editor-in-chief of the 1972 POLARIS. With a year of high school yearbook experience under his belt, he volunteered as a Third Classman. He was assistant editor last season

"My staff is enthused over producing a number one yearbook!" he exclaimed. "We're going to break with past issues. Instead of a repetitive annual, with new pictures in the same old layout, we have come up with a completely new format in modern style.

"We hope to place high in national yearbook ratings, as POLARIS has always done," Cadet Allison continued. We are not designing the annual, however, to please the critics. The final criteria will be acceptance by the Cadet Wing. If it really tells what happens this year, and the cadets are pleased with it, we will have done our job!"

The POLARIS staff is relatively young, eager and inexperienced this year. Several key positions are held by Second and Third Classmen. But talented help? The staff is rich with it. Young, yes, but gifted with creative imaginations.

Take assistant editor Dan Pierre, who is also co-editor of the opening section. As a second classman, he will bring an extra year of responsible experience to the staff in his senior year.

Or the copy editors, Kelly McClure and Bill Sexton. Second and third classmen respectively, they write all of the copy for the entire publication.

"Our editor-in-chief has organized the staff so that each member does his own thing," explained McClure. "Instead of each man being a jack-of-all trades, each cadet works at what he does best!"

POLARIS is renowned for its excellent photography, in color and black and white. Photo editor Greg Bishop and his staff make all photo assignments. They cover each Cadet Wing event through careful advance planning. Contact prints are made of all negatives. Section editors select the pictures they want, and enlargements are made of those photos only.

The yearbook is divided into several sections, each with its own editorial staff. The Cadet Life co-editors, for example, are Mark Ewing and Gary Van Drie. Military Life coverage is planned by Ken Stoehrmann and Bill Sexton. Falcon sports coverage will be handled by Al Phillips and Kelly McCullor, both second classmen.

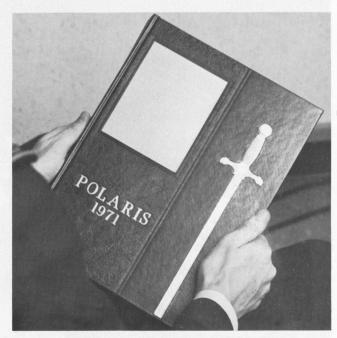

Layout! This is an area where creative genius will result in a different appealing style for POLARIS. Layout editor John Passwater, a sophomore, will work closely with Editor John Allison in the concept of a new and appealing modern format.

The business manager is Leo Genest, a junior who has his hands full managing the financial status. The advertising section, for example, comes under his supervision. All the paid ads are sold by professional salesmen. Each cadet in the Wing is entitled to a copy of POLARIS; the $10 cost is deducted from each cadet's payroll reserve account.

The yearbook, printed by the Walsworth Publishing Company in Missouri on a competitive contract, is distributed the first week in September each year. Copies are mailed to graduates who left the Academy the preceding June. The late publishing date, however, permits the inclusion of all June Week activities, events of great interest to the graduating class.

Additional copies of POLARIS are available for sale to the faculty, staff and parents. The cost is $10 plus a $2 postage fee. Orders may be placed by writing to the Cadet Publications Officer, USAF Academy, Colorado 80840.

The yearbook is an excellent record of a cadet year at the academy.

70days Game | AIR FORCE vs. ARMY

By HAL BATEMAN Air Force Sports Information Director

A service academy football rivalry is always something special. The annual Army-Navy game in Philadelphia has always captured the nation's attention but keep an eye on the series involving Army-Air Force and Air Force-Navy.

Today's contest with Army is one of those where a team's record going into the game is not a great factor. Almost anything can happen when two service rivals get together and it generally has in the past Air Force-Army rivalries.

In the first five games between Air Force and Army, the series is tied at 2-2-1. To make it even closer, the most lopsided game in the series was Air Force's 14-3 win in 1964.

The series started in 1959 at Yankee Stadium in New York City and it set the tone for the rivalry by ending in a 13-13 tie. The series resumed in 1963 at Chicago's Soldier Field with Army coming out on top, 14-10. The game stayed in Chicago the next year when the Falcons scored their first victory, 14-3.

After a break of three years, Army played for the first time in Falcon Stadium and came out with a 10-7 win. Air Force was the visiting team in the last game of the series by scoring a 13-6 win over the Cadets at Michie Stadium in 1969.

The last game was even closer than the final score indicated. Dennis Leuthauser of Air Force and Arden Jensen of Army exchanged a pair of field goals before Ernie Jennings gave the Falcons the victory with a 96-yard kickoff return late in the game.

Most of the principals in that contest are gone although several Falcons on this year's team played key roles. Linebacker Darryl Haas was the Falcons' punter as he is today while Paul Bassa, the Falcons' leading pass receiver as an offensive end this season, was a defensive end in that game. Senior defensive backs Charlie Richardson and Kent Bays, starters today, also were starters that day as was senior John Greenlaw at defensive tackle.

On the Army side, both offensive halfback Ray Ritacco and defensive halfback Randy Stein started in 1969 and are slated to start again today.

In the common foe department, both teams have beaten Missouri and both have lost to Penn State. The Falcons defeated Missouri 7-6 while Army's margin over the Tigers was 22-6. Penn State edged Air Force 16-14 and downed Army, 42-0, last Saturday.

A tip of the hat to Air Force junior defensive back Chip Hough of Saratoga, Calif., who set a school record for punt returns in last week's 30-0 victory over Southern Methodist. Hough picked up 179 yards on three punt returns including runs of 48, 51 and 80 yards, the latter one for a touchdown. That set a single game record and left him only 14 yards shy of the season record.

In a skid, the thing that can kill you is your own instinct.

A little sand spilled on a nice dry highway. A spatter of rain on an oily city street. A patch of glare ice on a bridge.

You can skid on all of them. Even with brand new tires. Even at 12 miles an hour. And, if you skid, you can count on your instinctive reflexes to try and murder you.

Because your instinct wants the skid to stop. So it tries to make you hit your brakes (figuring that brakes can put a stop to anything).

Your instinct figures wrong.

Hitting your brakes keeps your wheels from rolling. So they're forced to keep sliding. And a minor skid can turn into a fatal crash.

When you start to skid, forget your instinct and remember these rules:

Keep your foot off the brake.

If your rear wheels are sliding to the right, steer gently to the right until you feel the tires gripping the road again. (Don't make any fast, sharp moves.)

If your rear wheels slide to the left, steer gently to

If you must stop, pump your brake pedal with a hard, rapid, on-and-off action to keep your wheels from locking and skidding even worse.

Finally, if you must drive on a slippery road and your instinct tells you that a sudden change of speed or direction could make you skid, obey it. (Your instinct isn't always wrong.)

M©bil.
We want you to live.

THIS IS THE ACADEMY

Location: Approximately 10 miles north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, at the base of the Rampart Range of the Rocky Mountains. The Academy site covers 18,000 acres.

Enrollment: 4,100 (approximate). Public Law 88-276 was signed by the President on 3 March 1964 authorizing an increase in strength of the Cadet Wing from 2,529 to 4,417.

Founded: Authorized 1 April 1954. The first class was received 11 July 1955. The first class was graduated in June 1959.

Colors: Silver and Blue

Nickname: Falcons

Mascot: Falcon (Mach I)

Curriculum: The U.S. Air Force Academy is neither an engineering nor a liberal arts college, but combines certain elements of both. It may be accurately described as a school of general education for professional Air Force Officers—a school which endeavors to give each cadet the knowledge and qualities of leadership required of an officer in the United States Air Force and a basis for continued development throughout a lifetime of service to his country, leading to readiness for responsibilities as a future air commander. A cadet who completes the 4-year course will graduate with a Bachelor of Science degree and a commission as a second lieutenant in the Regular Air Force.

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE ACADEMY MISSION

To provide instruction and experience to each cadet so that he graduates with the knowledge and characteristics essential to leadership and the motivation to become a career officer in the United States Air Force.

"O" MITCHELL

5-11, 198-pound Junior Center from Elkhart, Ind.

The success of any offensive attack depends on the ability of the offensive linemen and Air Force has one of the best in center "O" Mitchell.

Although he has played only one full season of varsity football, Mitchell is already the best center in Falcon history and one of the best in the nation, earning Sophomore All-America honors last fall and receiving All-America mention in pre-season polls this year.

"We feel that Big O has the potential to be an All-America," said Falcon head coach Ben Martin. "As a matter of fact, he's probably the best lineman we've ever had in Falcon football. He can do it all. He makes the blocks, has all the techniques down, is a fine leader, hustles down the field after he makes his primary block and can make the long snap for punts."

Mitchell lettered last year with 307 minutes and was a big reason why the Falcons posted a 9-2 regular season record and earned a berth in the Sugar Bowl.

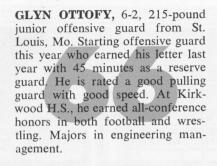

Blessed with excellent speed, Mitchell is a versatile athlete and played on the basketball team last winter, a rare feat in major college athletics.

He earned all-state honors at Elkhart H.S. in Indiana where he was also a highly-regarded basketball player. He is majoring in chemistry.

MEET THE FALCONS

CHIP HOUGH, 6-2, 179-pound junior cornerback from Saratoga, Calif. A starting cornerback this year who played on the JVs last fall. Chip has excellent speed, 9.9 in the 100 yard dash, lettering as a hurdler on the varsity track team last winter. This year he is among the team leaders in both total tackles and passes broken up. He majors in engineering management.

GENE OGILVIE, 6-4, 224-pound junior defensive end from San Jose, Calif. Starting left end for the Falcons this year, Gene is tied with Bob Homburg for most tackles for losses and is among leaders in tackles. Lettered last year with 50 tackles, including six for 34 yards in losses. He also recovered three fumbles. Carries a B average in a geography major.

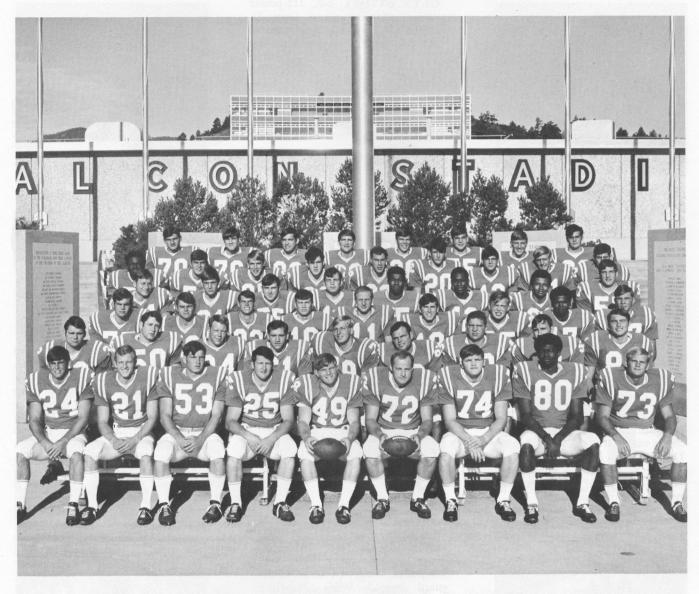

MARK PRILL, 6-1, 195-pound junior middle guard from Port Townsend, Wash. A reserve middle guard behind Willie Mayfield, Mark was especially effective against Wyoming and Penn State this year, blocking a field goal try and recovering a fumble. He won the Wing Open 177-pound boxing title last year beating football teammate Pat Stucker. Carries a 3.78 grade average in civil engineering.

BOB HOMBURG, 6-0, 196-pound junior defensive end from Madison, Wis. Has teamed with Gene Ogilvie to give the Falcons an effective pair of defensive ends. Bob is tied with Ogilvie for most tackles for losses, in addition to recovering two fumbles. Lettered last year with 24 minutes of action. Top scholar on the team with a 3.90 average as a physics major.

THE UNITED STATES MILITARY ACADEMY

Founded in 1802, the United States Military Academy at West Point, New York, has occupied a colorful and important place in American History. Among its more than 30,000 graduates, it lists names such as Dwight D. Eisenhower, Douglas McArthur, John J. Pershing, Ulysses S. Grant, Robert E. Lee, Frank Borman, Mike Collins, and Edwin Aldrin. Each year the Academy graduates about 800 new officers dedicated to a career in the service of our country.

This is a long way from the graduating class of 1802 which numbered two men. On March 16, 1802, Congress authorized a Corps of Engineers established at West Point, New York, set its strength at five officers and ten cadets, and stated that the Corps "...when so organized...shall constitute a Military Academy."

The present strength of the Corps of Cadets is approximately 4400, and it is expected that the authorized strength of 4417 cadets will be reached by July 1972.

West Point's site has grown from the original 1800 acres purchased from Stephen Moore in 1790 to about 16,000 acres today. Fortifications, barracks, and other buildings existed at the time of the purchase, since West Point had been occupied as a military post since January 20, 1778. Some remnants of the Revolutionary War fortifications at West Point remain today. Point remain today.

1778. Some remnants of the Revolutionary War fortifications at West Point remain today.

The system of education and the principles of academic and Military training at the Military Academy, established by Colonel Sylvanus Thayer, Superintendent of the Academy from 1817 to 1833, have endured the test of time for a century and a half. Thayer, who is honored as the father of the Military Academy, had one ideal always before him: to produce men who would be trained and worthy leaders. He demanded of cadets excellence of character and excellence of knowledge. Thayer also demanded that cadets develop habits of mental discipline and maintain high standards of scholarship. He emphasized regular habits, and laid down the rule that every cadet had to pass every course. He limited the classroom sections to from 10 to 14 members, rated those sections in order of merit, and directed that cadets be transferred from one to another as their grade averages rose or fell.

The mission of the Military Academy is to instruct and train the Corps of Cadets so that each graduate will have the qualities and attributes essential to his progressive and continued development throughout a career as an officer in the Regular Army.

Inherent in this mission are the objectives of providing a broad collegiate education in the arts and sciences leading to the Bachelor of Science degree; developing within the cadet a high sense of duty and the attributes of character that emphasize integrity, discipline, and motivation essential to the profession of arms; developing the physical stamina, agility, courage, and coordination essential to a career as an officer in the Armed Forces; and providing a basic military education rather than specific technical skills.

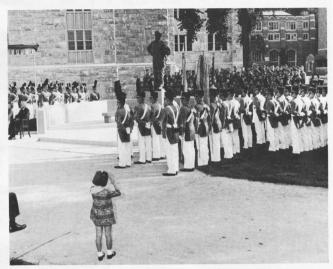

The Academy must build, in just four short years, a solid mental, moral, physical, and military foundation on which its graduates rely.

The Academy must build, in just four short years, a solid mental, moral, physical, and military foundation on which its graduates rely. Consequently, the daily life of a cadet at the Military Academy is a full one: A cadet must utilize every minute to meet the demands placed upon him in this manifold challenge.

upon him in this manifold challenge.

In terms of classroom time, approximately 50% of the present standard academic program is devoted to mathematics-science-engineering subjects, and 50% to the social sciences and humanities.

The Military Academy is accredited to award the Bachelor of Science degree by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The four-year course of study leads to the award of this degree and to a commission as a second lieutenant in the Regular Army.

FALCON STADIUM

Stadium Information

LOST AND FOUND

If you lose an article while attending a game at Falcon Stadium, check at the main ticket office in the east building or the main concessions office on the top tier of the west side. If you find an article in the stadium area, please turn it in to any of the concession stands, the main ticket office or the main concessions office.

FIRST AID

Trained medical personnel are in attendance at all Air Force home games. In case of any emergency, report it immediately to the head usher in your portal. There are two first aid rooms and two first aid stations located in Falcon Stadium. The rooms are located in the east side building and on third tier of the west side, directly under the press box. The stations are located off the walkways of the first and second tiers in the vicinity of the 50-yard line.

EMERGENCY CALLS

Individuals expecting emergency calls should file their portal section, row and seat number with the command post, located in the east side building. Office number is 472-1151. A call number will then be issued. No special announcements are made over the public address system except in cases of gravest emergency. Please do not request this service needlessly.

STADIUM FACTS

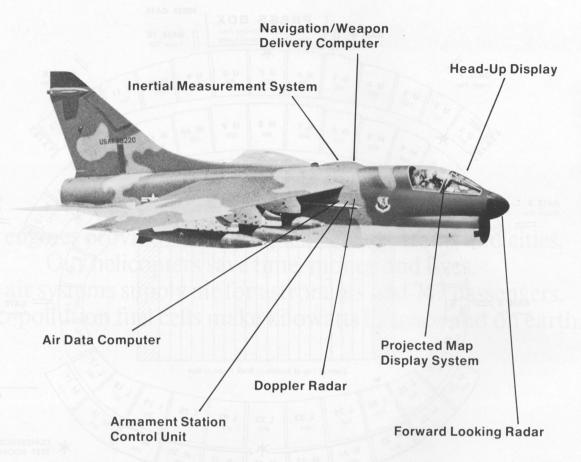

For natural beauty, Falcon Stadium is hard to surpass. Built into the base of the Rampart Range mountains, the modern facility also is one of the most functional sports structures in the country.

The concrete structure, built in a natural bowl, has 45,028 permanent seats and can hold up to 50,000 spectators with additional temporary bleachers. There is one level of seats on the east side and three tiers of seats on the west, each serviced by two concession stands and restroom areas. All seats are within easy walking distance of the 9,610-vehicle capacity parking lot which surrounds the stadium on three sides.

The stadium is easily accessible from divided U. S. Interstate 25 and the Academy's Stadium Boulevard which leads directly to the parking lot. There is also ample parking space for 300 commercial busses, and a rail siding is located just a few hundred yards from the bowl for special trains.

The whole is greater than the sum of its parts.

This simple definition of synergism is the best way to describe today's A-7. Its advanced electronic systems are so skillfully integrated that they out-perform each of their individual capabilities. Together they make the A-7 the most versatile and effective close air support and interdiction aircraft in the world.

Vought Aeronautics is the first aircraft manufacturer to produce an operational navigation and weapons delivery system that equals or betters unprecedented performance and accuracy guarantees.

Successful development of these systems took almost five years. Vought began with a proven air frame. Then we worked closely with the U.S. Air Force and U.S. Navy to design a superior avionics package that would meet the most exacting operational requirements. System interfaces were resolved with component suppliers. And computer software was developed to ideally coordinate these components.

In all, more than 4½ million man hours were invested. Plus thousands of simulation and flight test hours. Over ten thousand pieces of ordnance dropped. A quarter of a million 20MM rounds fired. Under rigorous test conditions.

As a result, today's A-7 delivers up to 15,000 pounds of varied payload with better than 10-mil accuracy. Destroying hard targets in one-third the sorties required by other systems.

Other aircraft today contain many of the same components found in the A-7. But the A-7 is the only weapons system in operation with demonstrated proof that its integrated whole is greater than the sum of its component parts.

Air Force Academy Songs and Yells

GO FALCONS

(Fight Song)
Words by Cadet R. L. Counts
Melody by Cadet J. C. Vance Arrangement by
A/1c H. Merrick, USAFA Band
Rev up and go Falcons to the fight,
For our spirit is high
Gear up and go Falcons surge ahead
On the field as in the sky;
For you will see silver and blue,
Reign supreme upon the field;
We will prove that we can't be beaten,
For the Falcons never yield.

COLLEGIATE COMMISSIONERS ASSOCIATION

Early in 1939 five college football commissioners established an organization for the purpose of attacking mutual problems. From that small beginning has grown what is now the Collegiate Commissioners Association, its members the chief executive officers and their assistants from the eleven major college conferences from coast to coast. Representing nearly 300 institutions, they range in size from the sevenmember Mid-American Conference to the mammoth 190-member Eastern College Athletic Conference.

The CCA's field of interest has broadened greatly since its inception, now encompassing not only football, but all sports on the collegiate program. The members as such give united attention not alone to officiating assignment and rules interpretation, but also to procedures on undergraduate athletic recruitment and eligibility and to the many other facets of intercollegiate sports administration.

HERE'S THE PLAN — Head Coach Ben Martin sends in a crucial fourth-down play with end Larry Huff late in the fourth quarter against Wyoming.

GENTLE ENCOURAGEMENT — Coach Kendall gives the defense a little incentive to try harder against Wyoming.

QUARTERBACK PROTECTION — Spike Hillstrom, offensive line coach, explains the finer points of blocking to starting center "O" Mitchell (58) and Gordon Herrick (69), starting guard.

YOU MUST BE KIDDING -- Linebackers coach John Carney watches intently as the Falcons try to stop a Wyoming drive early in the game.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON AT FALCON STADIUM

There are some occasions during a college football game when there is as much action along the sidelines as there is on the field.

With a narrow 7-6 win over Missouri and a last second comeback against Wyoming, 23-19 in their first two contests, Air Force coaches had reason to be active during the games.

The Falcon coaches who are not pictured on these two pages include Jack Braley, defensive backfield coach; Bernie Raetz, offensive backfield coach and Butch Metcalf, offensive line coach. These three coaches have the responsibility of observing the game from the press box and providing those on the field with a better perspective of the game.

DEFENSIVE STRATEGY — Defensive line coach Leland Kendall gives the defensive unit last-minute instructions in the Wyoming game. Players shown in the picture include Kent Bays (21), Charlie Richardson (24), J. C. Weydert (50) and Mark Prill (67).

SO FAR AWAY — The scoreboard and Coach Martin's expression tell the story as Air Force trailed 19-16 against Wyoming with only four minutes left.

FOLLOW THE FALCONS — Receivers coach Nick Liontas watches intently during the Wyoming game. The young receivers learned their lesson as sophomores Greg Smith and Bill Berry both caught touchdown passes against the Cowboys.

Salute to the men of the U.S. Air Force Academy and the U.S. Air Force

AWACS. Eight-engine version of Boeing 707-320 shown with large radome designed to house surveillance radar antenna. AWACS fleet would serve as an Airborne Warning and Control System, for both tactical and air defense forces.

Boeing 747 superjet, winner of Collier Trophy as aviation event of the year, has carried 15 million passengers flying for 26 airlines. Freighter version, ready soon for its first flight, can carry 125 tons of cargo.

BOEING

Our '72 wagon tailgates go up, down, sideways, slideways and one even disappears.

We've got five different kinds of wagons. One for every kind of wagon buyer.

Wagons with different kinds of tailgates especially designed for convenience. Including one that vanishes—the window into the roof, the gate under the floor. Out of sight. Out of your way.

Wagons that seat four, six, eight, nine or as many as twelve. If you like, our Sportvan can even be converted to sleep up to six. We're serious when we say we want your 1972 Chevrolet wagon to be the very best wagon you ever owned.
